Kristyn:

As per Jim Schroeder's instruction to me today, please move the $5M gifts received in June, 2006 to support the Woody Hayes Athletic Center to their appropriate donor records (two different foundation funds, I believe?) and assign the gift recognition credit to Abigail Wexner.

These gifts named the Les Wexner Football Complex.

Thanks,

Dana

THE COLUMBUS DISPATCH

David Foster | DISPATCH

Coach Jim Tressel points to a Les Wexner photo and quote that says, "Without Ohio State, I could have never gone to college."

Abigail Wexner knows not only how to keep a secret, but also how to give a birthday gift. She proved both late Saturday afternoon when she led her husband, billionaire businessman Les Wexner, into the newly named Les Wexner Football Complex at Ohio State.

"This is about Les Wexner's family wanting to do something very special for him," Ohio State coach Jim Tressel said yesterday. "Only Abigail and their oldest son, Harry, knew about this. And to keep a secret like that for three years, especially in Columbus, Ohio, where Ohio State football means so much, is extraordinary."

Abigail Wexner wanted a unique gift for her philanthropist husband's 70th birthday on Saturday, Tressel said. So three years ago, she donated the $5 million starter fund for what turned out to be the recently completed, $21 million remodeling/expansion of the 20-year-old Woody Hayes Athletic Center.

Tressel said Les Wexner teared up when he realized what was going on Saturday at the gathering soon after the win over Akron.

There are new signs above the entrance and an enlarged photo of Wexner on the wall, extolling his philanthropic history and his service to Ohio State, which includes his current second term on the OSU board of trustees.

"Here is a man who has had wonderful experiences, has made an impact in so many ways, yet being aligned with Ohio State, being aligned with Woody Hayes, being aligned with Ohio State football brings tears to his eyes," Tressel said. "Shoot, to me that's special."
